I have received several reports over the last 48 hours of people who were trying to purchase Precious Metals (Gold, Silver, Platinum) using a credit card, only to have the purchase declined. by their Bank, despite having more than sufficient available credit.

On second thought, dont try to purchase Gold or Silver with credit.
Those who did so in the last 48 are now reporting entire Credit cancellation.
Those without cash reserves are screwed.

wouldn't it be smarter to ride the rise of the crypto then sell at peak and turn to gold then?
do you know which crpytos are in discussion?

I'm assuming no and we're just tracking the gold purchase attempts to signify a shortage of available metals being moved therefore signifying something but we don't entirely know what (but rumors of gold backed dollar are high) what're they going to ride? we know it will fail but we can all jump ship when it does you forget that they still have to sell this to the public if you had any idea of what you were talking about then you'd have said it already they're not going to invent some crypto to throw out last minute, they're going to use something that they've been buying up for years and have been advertising and promoting for exactly what it would become or else they could never sell it to the masses you act like these people don't think long term, it'll be something that anyone who has been keeping track of it long enough would know but that's obviously not you or me if they're going to use a crypto then it already exist out there and it'd be one that people could ride to limit the amount that goes toward bad actors although in a very insignificant current way might allow people who're willing to use that money for good instead of evil for long term gain as in

>we can make all the neets rich along with them and then use our money for good projects instead of bad ones we'd just have to find out which cabal cryptos have been being pushed for their long term goal once again they're not making it a huge secret they still have to communicate with each other outside of their typical tracked means which means their comms can be tracked by someone who's looking hard enough which means you're telling people to buy a commodity which won't be available to them giving them false hope of "making it" and in that case you're a huge demoralizing retard no one here can go find gold to buy so what's the point in mentioning it even your archival points were well past the point of >buy now

cause it was already near impossible for anyone to get any worthwhile amount of gold and that probably should have been something you noticed and if you did you still spread information to give those false hope

Only reason I ask is because I've seen some articles saying the evil mucky-mucks at the BIS/IMF, Lagarde, etc would use XRP as some kind of clearing currency.
I was thinking of it as a piggybacking hedge in case those fucks get their full NWO...i.e. use proceeds if it goes to the moon to fund a "good guys trust" to fight the scum who want to destroy the world.
But then, if the crypto of choice is going to crater as you say, then that gives me hope that the BIS/IMF types will no longer be in control...or am I inferring too much?

Real high level question....

How is the “good” side going to redistribute capital after the collapse?

IMO, the only “honest”/right/preserving thing without looking like a commie, would be to admit some part of what’s happened, then it would be legal settlement. Much like the monetary legal settlements that happen every day.

The problem is/was not debt, it’s the capital accumulation at the top and the killing of the entrepreneurial cycle because savings/labour erosion.

So forgiving debt doesn’t actually do anything as boost morale.

i'd be surprised if CC companies were cancelling cards of pm buyers. it's not like we're in the middle of a pm mania, where prices are smashing the all time high on a daily basis, and every household is buying them at any price.

what wouldn't surprise me at all is CC companies contracting credit lines. lets say someone isn't working, has a mortgage and family to support, and little to no savings. maybe they're making ends meet with unemployment benefits, maybe they're not, but in any event, they know that could run out or see benefit cuts. but wait a second, they have 30K in available credit, spread over their 6 credit cards. they could tap into their cards gradually, as expenses come up, but there's some risk there, because their credit lines can always be reduced if the company sees a trend of increasing debt and minimum/non-payment. an alternative is they max out their cards on pm's, which are highly liquid, and either sit on them, or flip them to a dealer for cash. now they're sitting on ~25-30K of cash, and the credit card debt is unsecured. their credit will be wrecked, but that might be enough to get them through the next couple years, compared to being destitute right now. people will kick the can down the road, by whatever means necessary, the same way the government does.

I have 12 cards and never carry a balance, I just play their own game and earn rewards. In the past year 3 of them have lowered my limits but gave a number to call in if I disagreed. 2 of them immediately reinstated my limit, but one (an AmEx) refused on the grounds that I havent shown I needed that high of a limit.

Silver even if a rich fag, sure get some gold if rich but the gold silver ratio is too good right now, it was 115 ounces silver to 1 ounce of gold couple months back and now its 93 I think but the typical average was 65 and historial I think is 35 silver to 1 gold and if you go by mining ratios its always 8 ounces silver for every 1 ounce gold. So many people like to buy silver to exchange to gold later on once the ratio drops.
